DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Darling WO 93/231,125. Darling discloses all of the instant application but lacks in specifically disclosing a specific type of message to be transmitted. Instead Darling discloses a multiplayer wireless communication device that includes some degree of direct communication between players as well as system wide communication where a player may select from a menu of predetermined messages or may type in a message. The invention to Darling is a multiplayer adventure game which provides enough motivation to one skilled in the art to that the messages are related to ~~a the~~ adventure game and the playability thereof and as such the types of messages claimed would be an obvious matter of choice well within the capabilities of one skilled in the art.
